A Success Story

Last week I received a message from a church member asking if I could give brief words of encouragement during the one-year celebration of her business. I thought to myself, why words of encouragement and not words of congratulations?

Then I realized that all the success stories in life, whether you are a successful athlete or a successful business leader, everyone has gone through trials, gone through so much sweat and tears, temptations, and struggles in order to get where they are. Judging from the way her business is going, she is doing pretty well and has become successful in what she's doing, but I'm sure there were a lot of tears and sweat shed along the way, a lot of painful struggles, trials, and temptations that had to be overcome. And those things will never stop. That is why she requested words of encouragement.
